

Australia – New Zealand Chapter

Symposium on The Global Financial Crisis and its Impact on Firms in the Asia-Pacific Region

9 November 2009

Monash University, Clayton Campus
Melbourne, Australia

Call for Papers

The recent onslaught of the global financial crisis has affected the operation and profitability of firms around the world. Academics and practitioners have started searching to understand the causes of this unprecedented crisis and its impact on business. However, most of the ongoing deliberations have been focused on North American and other Western contexts, with little attention to organisations in the Asia-Pacific region.

You are cordially invited to submit a paper to a symposium being organised by the Australia – New Zealand Chapter of the AIB, where we will consider this important issue, with an aim to better understanding the consequences of the global financial crisis on firms in the Asia Pacific region. The symposium welcomes papers addressing all aspects of the theme.

Submission details are as follows:

Length: Short papers (maximum of six pages, excluding tables and references) are invited for the symposium. Please follow the JIBS formatting guidelines.

Submission deadline: 28 September 2009

Submission method: E-mail your submission as an attachment to Ms Libby Hart, at libby.hart@buseco.monash.edu.au. In the subject line, please mention 'ANZIBA Symposium 2009 paper submission'.

There is no registration fee for participating authors, and the two best paper presentations will be selected to receive partial support to attend the 2010 AIB meeting in Brazil, courtesy of ANZIBA (Australia and New Zealand International Business Academy).

Should you have any queries regarding the symposium, please don't hesitate to contact:
